Concert...Mme. Augusta Lenska, Russian Prima Donna, and the Great Lakes String Quartet.

FRIDAY MORNING.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Lecture, "The Great Highway"...Charles Lueblin.

FRIDAY NIGHT.

Debate, "Shall the Government Own and Operate the Railroads?"...Affirmative, Charles Zueblin, and Negative, Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury.

Those who attend the Seymour chautauqua at Shields park may hear the remaining numbers with the complete satisfaction that the guarantee to the Redpath company has been entirely raised and that there will be no money appeals or special campaigns to sell tickets made during the week. An accounting of the season ticket sale yesterday afternoon revealed that the local association lacked about $200 of having sufficient money to meet the guarantee for the program and the incidental expenses, which were incurred in connection with the season ticket campaign. The directors decided those who are interested in the assembly would enjoy the course more if they knew that the expenses had been paid.

Accordingly, arrangements were made yesterday to sell the necessary additional tickets which would wipe out the indebtedness. The Rev. Charles W. Whitman, pastor of the First M. E. church, was asked to conduct the special campaign at the night session. He explained that the association needed about $200 to meet the program guarantee and to pay the incidental expenses and then launched a spirited campaign to sell the necessary tickets. Ninety tickets were pledged and the sale will furnish sufficient revenue to meet all expenses.

Under the contract which the local association made with the Redpath bureau this year, a guarantee of $1,750 was made for the course. The Redpath bureau under the contract in addition takes all the money derived from single admission until the receipts reach $2,500 and then the local association received ten per cent. of the additional sales. Under this contract the revenue from possible single admissions exceeding $2,500 would be very small. The only method, therefore, that the Seymour organization had to make the chautauqua pay out was to sell sufficient season tickets to meet the guarantee. Those who are interested in the financial welfare of the assembly are greatly pleased that the guarantee has been raised and feel that the announcement will be valuable aid to the chautauqua during the remainder of the session. There will be no more appeals for money at the open session, it was announced today.

Charles Zueblin, formerly connected with the Chicago University, will deliver an address on "The Great Highway" tomorrow afternoon. On Thursday night he will meet Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, in a debate on "Shall the Government Own and Operate the Railroads." These questions are on the minds of everyone and the information will be highly valuable.

The Great Lakes String Quartet, which was the presidential orchestra on the United States Steamship George Washington when President Wilson made his trip to France, gave a splendid musical program this afternoon. This organization will give the concert and Mme. Augusta Lenska, Russian prima donna, will also sing tonight.

The address of R. E. P. Kline delivered last night, following an appreciated prelude by the Harvesters' Company, is regarded as one of the best of the kind ever delivered here. "The New Competition" was the subject of the speaker and he devoted much time to a discussion of world politics, dealing at length with the league of nations. He thought that war would be prevented by the federation of the nations of the world and that through it a better understanding between nations would result.

ACTION IS TAKEN ON POST LIGHTING

Committee of Three Councilmen Appointed to Investigate Plan of Illumination.

RESOLUTION IS INTRODUCED

Proposed That Poles and Wires be Removed Before System is Installed.

A resolution providing for the installation of an electric post lighting system on Second street between Ewing and Walnut streets, and on Chestnut street, between Third and Bruce streets, and the removal of all poles, wires and cross pavement signs on the streets designated, was introduced at the regular session of the city council Wednesday night, marking the first official action by the chamber of commerce committee to provide a better system of illumination in the business district. Mayor Burkart appointed as members of a special committee which has charge of the investigation of the proposed plan, Councilmen Emery, Hoadley and Collins.

Claude Carter, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee, and J. H. Andrews spoke before the council in favor of the proposed system. They pointed out that the best effects would not be obtained until all the poles, wires and other obstructions on the streets and sidewalks are removed.

It was explained that the poles which support the guy wires for the interurban trolley wire could be removed and the guy wires anchored to the buildings on either side of the street. No damage would result to any of the buildings, it was stated.

$5,000 DAMAGE SUIT CASE FILED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Ed Cunningham Demands Damages of James Cunningham for Injuries Sustained in 1917.

A $5,000 damage suit case has been filed in the Jackson Circuit court by Ed Cunningham, a resident of Grassy Fork township, against James Cunningham, of Brownstown. In his complaint the plaintiff alleges that on July 15, 1917 the defendant was operating a saw mill in Brownstown township at which time the plaintiff was a day laborer.

On said date the plaintiff says that he and some other employees had felled a tree but the trunk was held from the ground by reason of the limbs. The plaintiff says that acting under instructions from the defendant he began to cut the tree trunk into logs with an axe and while engaged in such work and before the trunk was cut in two, it broke apart and dropped on his foot mashing the same so that it was necessary to amputate two toes, that the bones of his foot were broken and he was unable to do manual labor from date of injury until January 1, 1918.

PUBLIC MEETING AT BROWNSTOWN

Commercial Club at County Seat Will Take Up Telephone Rate Increase Tonight.

OTHER TOWNS REPRESENTED

Crothersville and Vallonia Will Have Representatives Present at the Meeting.

A special meeting of the Brownstown Commercial Club is scheduled for tonight at which time the telephone rate increase will be discussed and plans made for action to be taken by subscribers at the county seat. The meeting has been called for 8 o'clock and a large crowd is expected to be present.

According to reports from Brownstown, the telephone subscribers there feel that the new rate imposed on them by the Brownstown Telephone Company, which is owned by the same people who control the Seymour Mutual Telephone Company, are too high. It is the contention of numerous Brownstown subscribers that the increased rates are way out of proportion considering the amount of investment in the telephone plant at that place.

At the meeting at Brownstown tonight Crothersville and Vallonia will have representatives present and it is possible that some action to prevent the increase will be agreed on and will be adopted by the three towns. The Crothersville and Vallonia plants are owned by the same people that control the Seymour and Brownstown plants.

It was reported here this afternoon that many of the Brownstown subscribers are refusing to pay the increased rate and if some adjustment is not made immediately they will have their phones removed. Provided the matter is carried to the Public Utilities Commission it is likely that arrangements will be made to employ the service of special council to protect the Brownstown subscribers' interests.

INTERNATIONAL FLAG A MYTH, FORD DECLARES

Automobile Manufacturer Asked About American Flag and Patriotism by Attorney.

By United Press

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 17—Henry Ford's international flag was a myth, the automobile manufacturer declared today when called to the stand in his $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Tribune. Ford was asked minutely concerning alleged remarks concerning the international flag, the American flag and patriotism.

"Did you ever say you were going to pull down the Stars and Stripes after the war and never raise it again—that you were designing a new flag?" Attorney Stevenson of the Tribune asked Ford.

"I don't remember making such a remark. I never saw the flag until recently."

Stevenson checked up the testimony of Irving Bacon, that he had worked on a flag designed about the time of Ford's interview with John Reed, a magazine writer.

"I never saw but one design of the flag and that was a small one," Ford said.

The Reed interview was the cause of much discussion.

KESSLER WILL BE TRIED IN SHELBY CIRCUIT COURT

Trial of Man Alleged to Have Murdered Former Hayden Girl Will Come Up Next October.

The case of George Kessler, of Indianapolis, charged with the murder of Miss Minnie May Wilkins, a former resident of Hayden, whose body was found in a cistern in Indianapolis on May 31, in the rear of her home in Hendricks place, Indianapolis, will be tried in the Shelby county circuit court. George R. Tolen, prosecuting attorney for Shelby county, has announced that the trial will not be held until the October term of court. The case was sent to the Shelby county circuit court on a change of venue from Marion county.

Paris, July 17—No substitute can be accepted for trial of the former kaiser, according to an opinion filed with the council of five by a committee of allied experts today. Infantry and Artillery Moved up in Preparation for an Offensive Blow.

By United Press

Paris, July 17—The Hungarian red army was reported today to be concentrating for an offensive against the Rumanians. Official advices received here stated that several divisions of infantry and a number of batteries of light artillery had begun moving up within the last few days. Three regiments composed of workmen refused to participate in the mobilization, but the movement otherwise apparently was going forward rapidly.

GERMANY PLANS TRADE CAMPAIGN

Commercial Agents to Visit Many Countries in Effort to Recapture Business.

DRIVE WILL BE ENERGETIC

Individual Concerns Also Assisting Government to Rehabilitate Commerce.

By United Press

Berlin, July 17—Creation of a small army of technical and business experts is being planned in Germany today as part of an energetic drive to restore her business relations in foreign lands.

These agents will be sent forth to all the leading countries of the world either as "free lance" investigators, or as attaches of German embassies and consulates. Aside from this, which is of government origin, private concerns and trade organizations are forming elaborate programs for the recapture of German overseas commerce.

The mission of the government experts will be to gather data in all lines of trade. Moreover, they will endeavor to foster better relations between German business and the business of the country to which they are attached. Presumably, they will work directly in connection with the trade bureau recently formed as an adjunct to the foreign office.

While the government is setting about to aid business to get on its feet again, business leaders themselves realize German commerce is not going to be welcomed effusively on the heels of the great war and are making their plans accordingly. A recent suggestion is for the systematic establishment of German chambers of commerce throughout the world.

With foreign agents already flooding Europe, waiting to capture new business, German industry is planning to get representatives on the road as soon as the slack industrial situation permits. For instance, the correspondent saw a big motion picture concern's contract with a prominent salesman, whereby he will go to New York soon and strive to put on the market a new type of films. He also will seek to open relations with American companies to obtain certain of their pictures for German showing.

German leaders admit, however, that they cannot proceed with their big campaign immediately, because there are not sufficient manufactured products on hand. What Germany needs today, if she is to regain her trade position, is more raw materials and more food.

CONFERENCES TO BE CONTINUED

Wilson Plans to Meet Four or Five Republicans Daily Relative to Treaty Ratification.

FIGHT IS MADE IN CONGRESS

House May Again Adopt Repeal of The Daylight Saving Law in Agricultural Bill.

By United Press

Washington, July 17—President Wilson will continue his conferences with republican senators until he has gone through the entire list, it was said at the white house today. He planned to schedule appointments with four or five each day allowing an hour to each conference. Ordinarily, presidential conferences are for only fifteen minutes.

While the president apparently sought to gain the upper hand in congress through winning leaders to his side by means of personal conferences, the administration's influence was facing attack in both senate and house.

The league of nations was before the senate with Sherman and other opposition members ready to make verbal assaults on it.

In the house the republicans were prepared to defy Wilson by again passing the repeal of daylight saving which is contained in the agricultural bill and has already been vetoed once by the president. The Republicans, if they succeed in passing it, will practically dare Wilson to veto it again.

A number of republican senators invited by President Wilson to discuss the peace treaty and league of nations with him were to call at the white house today. Friends of the president said he would discuss freely reasons for adopting treaty provisions which the republicans are bitterly attacking in the senate and would attempt to answer questions they asked.

In the house there was a victory for the administration when the president's veto of the sundry civil bill was backed up by passage by of a substitute bill containing a $14,000,000 appropriation for vocational work. The original bill was vetoed because the vocational rehabilitation appropriation was too small.

Meanwhile league of nation foes in the senate won passage of Borah's resolution demanding that Wilson give the senate copies of protests other members of the American peace delegation are alleged to have made against the treaty. Senator Sherman attacked the treaty in a fiery speech and Senator Colt, Rhode Island, one of those scheduled to confer with Wilson today came out in support of the league of nations.

Senator McCumber was one of the first fifteen republican senators Wilson wants to meet to call at the white house today. He said Wilson told him some of the reasons why certain clauses have been placed in the treaty.

Daylight saving opponents have a large majority in both houses, but no votes have yet indicated the necessary two-thirds to override the president's veto. There is little doubt that the president will veto the new measure, although it will delay all appropriations for the department of agriculture.

Democrats, realizing the republicans are making a party issue of the president's veto, were conferring today and many leaders were urging that since the representatives from the country were already on record as voting against daylight saving, the party must now stand by the president. It is not considered probable that the republicans can keep their ranks solid, as 74 republicans voted for the daylight plan, with the president.

NEW RULES TO PROTECT HEALTH AT PUBLIC FAIRS

H. E. Barnard Announces Regulations That Will Be Enforced in Conduct of Stands.

H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, has announced new regulations that will be enforced to safeguard the health of the public at the fairs and other gatherings in Indiana this year.

In the past the instructions have been general regarding the stands, but in the latest instructions specific rules for the operation of the stands are laid down. Under the new rules, candies, crackerjack and other articles usually found at a fair shall not be made on the grounds except inside buildings and then only in rooms set apart for that purpose, or under conditions that have been approved by the state board of health.

The rules as laid down by the department follow:

1. An adequate supply of pure drinking water shall be provided through sanitary fountains before the fair is opened. A sample of the water to be supplied shall be sent to the water laboratory of the state board of health for analysis, and the water shall not be used unless its purity is so established.

2. An adequate supply of covered garbage cans shall be provided. The garbage cans shall be emptied at least once a day at some sufficiently distant place to avoid noisome odors, spreading diseases or attracting flies to the vicinity of the food handling stands.

3. All toilets and urinals shall be cleaned, disinfected and screened before the fair opens, and shall be clean and sanitary during the term of the fair.

4. All glasses, dishes, knives, forks and spoons shall be thoroughly sterilized after each use by being washed in hot water containing an adequate amount of alkaline cleansing powder and then by rinsing in clean water. If paper cups are used they shall be destroyed when once used.

5. All food stuffs shall be completely protected from flies, dust and other contamination.

6. Griddles for frying sausages, hamburgers, etc., shall be covered. Meats shall be kept in good condition by the use of ice.

7. Candies, crackerjack, etc., shall not be made on the grounds except inside of buildings and then only in rooms set apart for that purpose, or under conditions that have been approved by the state board of health.

8. Carriers in which ice cream cones and lemonade are distributed shall be covered.

9. Food handlers shall be provided with health certificates issued by a competent physician.

A divorce case has been filed with the clerk of the Jackson circuit court in which Anna Thompson vs. Jas. L. Thompson. Parties were married September 26, 1892 and separated June 12, 1918. In her complaint the plaintiff alleges that her husband failed to provide for her and that he is at the present time an inmate of the county infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bush and their guest, Mrs. Anna Reynolds, of Indianapolis, motored to Edinburg today to attend the races.

EFFORT TO REMOVE DISCRIMINATORY RATES

Freight Charges in Illinois and Indiana Are Said To Be On Uniform Basis.

Indianapolis, July 17—The public service commission was to confer with Indiana shippers regarding discriminatory freight rates here today. The meeting is preliminary to one to be held before the interstate commerce commission at Chicago July 21.

The discrimination is said to be in the rates between Indianapolis shipments and shipments within Illinois. The inequality was said to be due to a zone system of freight rates.

Terre Haute shippers said a thirteen cent rate is given St. Louis on meat shipments to Chicago while they (Terre Haute) have to pay nineteen cents, and this despite the great difference in the distances.

The Chicago meeting will be attended by members of the public service commission and leading shippers from every part of Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kamman left this morning for a two weeks visit in eastern cities. They will attend the National Optical Convention in Rochester, N. Y., which is held from July 20 to 26. Mr. Kamman is a delegate from the state of Indiana. They expect to visit Niagara Falls, New York and other points before returning to this city.

It is guaranteed to be as good a patent flour as there is on the market, no exceptions whatever. I have a full stock of feeds—hominy feed, cracked corn, middlings, bran, horse feed, dairy feed, and all kinds of feed for all purposes. Steps Taken to Extend Corporate Limits at Regular Session of City Council Wednesday Night.

ORDER SIDEWALKS IMPROVED

Sanitary Officer Ordered to Make Trip Over City and See That Weeds Are Cut at Once.

An ordinance to extend the corporate limits of the city of Seymour was introduced at the regular session of the city council, held Wednesday evening, by Councilman Eugene Ireland. The ordinance was placed on first reading and allowed to take its regular course.

The ordinance introduced at the meeting last night proposes to take in the Woodstock, Westover and Glenlawn additions and will extend several hundred feet on the south side of the city. The ordinance will be up for second reading at the regular session of the city council which will be held in two weeks.

The council ordered several sidewalk improvements made. A motion passed instructing the Seymour Improvement Company to improve the sidewalk on the north side of the Baltimore & Ohio office building within ten days. A resolution presented by Councilman Goodale, to order residents on the West side of Broadway north of Fifth street, to improve their sidewalks within thirty days, was adopted. Those who will be affected by the council's order are Mrs. John Lauster, Fred Able, John Himler, Mrs. Sullivan, Clem Roegge, John A. Ross, Henry Vogle, Henry Holman and Edward Perkinson.

Training Little Children

By Dr. William Byron Forbush

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergarten. Issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, 3 West Fortieth Street, New York.

"He hasn't got him yet!" was the little boy's delighted report each day after looking in his nursery book and discovering that the crocodile in the picture had not yet caught up with the peccaniny whom he was chasing.

"Why don't they get to church?" was another youngster's inquiry after he had turned for several weeks to Boughton's "Pilgrims Going to Church," and wondered why they did not arrive.

A third child put his hand protectively over the pictured figure of a kid, to shield it from an eagle; and another child of kindergarten age has been known to try to feed a pictured animal.

These incidents suggest the rather surprising fact that to a small child pictures are not merely symbols, but a part of his living world. At first he notes the similarity between the house-hold pet and the pictured east more than he does the difference and it is a long time before he grasps the idea that the latter is only a symbol.

It is perhaps a little disheartening to us adults, to whom pictures have opened a world of beauty, to realize that it is their usefulness and not their beauty which appeals to children up to 6 or 7 years of age. To them, pictures are simply something to play with. They prefer to have them little because they can handle them more easily. For any practical end they do not differ distinguishably from their dolls.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the first drawings of children are said to include the human face. Their affections for readymade pictures are similar; they like living creatures, people and animals and birds, and they like them best in action. They like only story pictures.

It is somewhat surprising to investigators to discover that, in their earlier interest in pictures, children do not seem to have any marked preference for the colored ones, though later they exhibit an interest in bright crude colors.

In general, they are not curious as to details. They will not notice that a figure is armless, and as we know so well, their own first drawings often have two eyes or ears on the same side of a face. Yet they do seem to single out the eyes as an object of peculiar interest. Did you ever have your two-year-old try to stick his forefinger in your eye? Little children often attempt the same with a pictured eye.

The educational lessons which we learn from these primitive tastes are plain, and since, to the small child, a picture is "the real thing" we should select his pictures, as we do his other toys, to help him in his little world of experience. They should represent the kind of people and pets whom he should love, engaged in activities which he can understand. Simple incidents, playful, jolly and unselfish, should be our choice, without reference to their esthetic purpose.

While we need not strive to select great art, we may choose clear, strong color and simple, well-drawn action. Thus we can lay foundations for appreciation of the beautiful.

Above all, each picture should suggest a good story, and we should give the story with the picture.

Help to reach all the parents of the country by cutting this out and passing it on to a friend.

COFFEE AS A FLAVOR

(These recipes were prepared and tested by Elizabeth H. Bohn)

Have you paused to think what a difference national prohibition will make in the family kitchen? Wines and cordials have long served as a standard flavoring for various delectable desserts which appeal particularly to men.

As a substitute let's consider coffee. Men almost without exception are fond of coffee and the average household bill of fare is planned with a view to the likes and dislikes of the lords of creation.

But here a word of warning: To get the best results in the use of coffee flavoring it should be prepared just as carefully as you brew your coffee for the morning or afternoon beverage.

Few Americans know the possibilities of this aromatic berry as a flavor. Our French neighbors across the sea consider coffee as a flavor par excellence, for desserts and confections. To produce a superior coffee flavor in these articles of diet, a study should be made of the best method of extracting the desirable qualities from the bean, for the predominating flavor obtained in the finished product will depend upon the method employed in the decoction.

There is an erroneous notion that the long boiling of coffee extracts more of the strength and color, and is therefore more economical; but strength and color thus gained are obtained at the expense of flavor and wholesomeness.

As one authority puts it: "The strength and flavor of roasted coffee is ground out, not boiled out." Coffee does not reach the consumer in the raw state but "cooked." It has been roasted at least 20 minutes.

The proportion of coffee to the amount of water used will, of course, determine the strength of the decoction. As tastes differ greatly, no rules of measurement can be given. The briefest contact of the coffee and boiling water is enough. Continued "stewing" brings out undesirable flavors.

The recipes given below have been thoroughly tested:

Coffee Caramel Parfait

1 cup milk 3 tablespoons ground coffee 1 cup sugar Yolks 3 eggs 1/2 teaspoon salt 3 cups cream 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk with coffee in a double boiler and add one-half the sugar that has been caramelized; then add yolks of eggs mixed with remaining sugar and salt. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly, and add one cup thin cream. Cool, strain, add two cups thin cream, and vanilla. Pack in one-half pound baking powder boxes, filling boxes to overflowing. Adjust covers, pack in salt and ice, using equal parts, and let stand two hours. Freeze, using three parts finely crushed ice to one part rock salt. Remove from molds to cold platter and roll in blanched almonds cut in thin slices, and delicately browned in moderate oven.

Coffee Mousse

1 cup strong coffee, 1 quart cream, 1 cup sugar, 1 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, 3 tablespoons cold water, 3 tablespoons hot water.

Combine the coffee, sugar and gelatine that has been soaked in cold and dissolved in boiling water. Set in pan of ice-water and stir until it begins to thicken; then fold in whip from cream, put in mould; half pound baking powder can with a tightly fitting cover can be used. Adjust covers, pack in salt and ice, and let stand four hours.

Coffee Ice-Cream

1 quart cream, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1-3 cup finely ground coffee, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, Yolks of four eggs.

Scald milk with coffee, add one cup sugar; mix egg yolks slightly beaten with one-fourth cup sugar, and salt; combine mixtures, cook over hot water until thickened, add one cup cream, and let stand on back of range twenty-five minutes; cool, add remaining cream, and strain through double cheese-cloth; freeze. Coffee ice-cream is delicious and may be served in halves of cantaloupes.

Coffee Sauce

(To be served with vanilla ice-cream) 1 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup finely ground coffee, 1/2 cup sugar, 3/4 tablespoon arrowroot, few grains of salt.

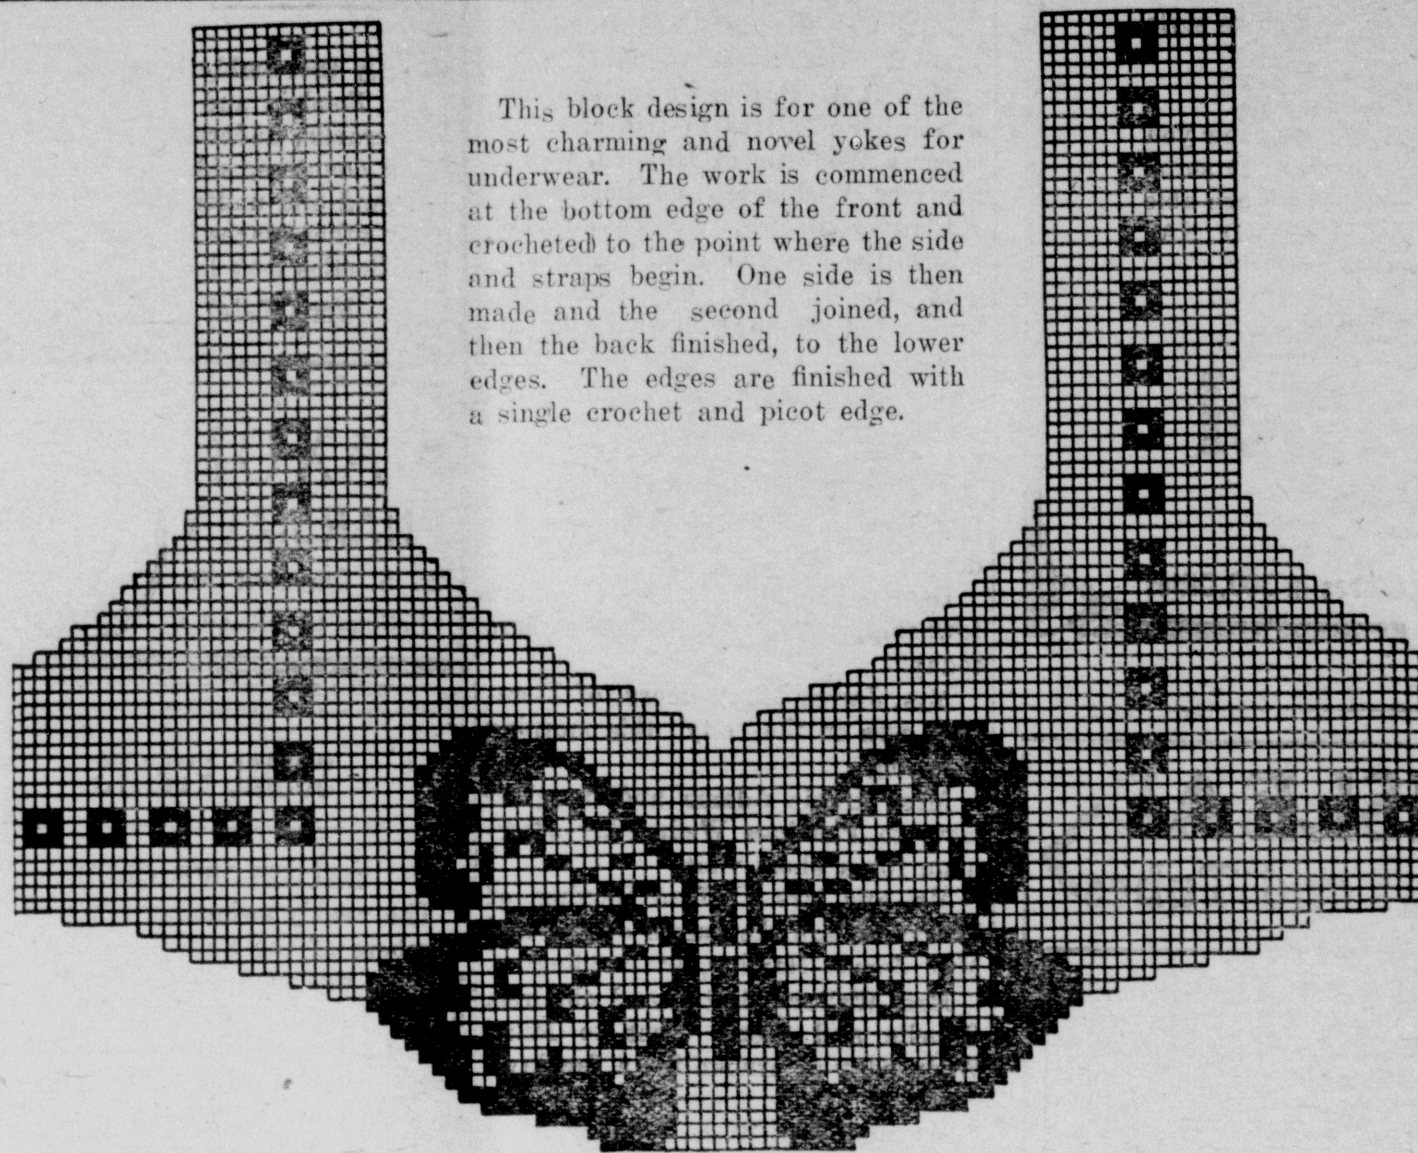

Scald milk with coffee, and let stand twenty minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, and pour on gradually the hot infusion which has been strained. Cook five minutes and serve hot.

Coffee Custard

4 tablespoons ground coffee, 1 quart milk, 2-3 cup sugar, 1/2 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs.

Add the ground coffee to the milk, put in a double boiler and scald, keep the lid on during the preparation, strain carefully. Pour the hot liquid over the well beaten eggs sugar and

ART NEEDLEWORK by Edith M. Owen

This block design is for one of the most charming and novel yokes for underwear. The work is commenced at the bottom edge of the front and crocheted to the point where the side and straps begin. One side is then made and the second joined, and then the back finished, to the lower edges. The edges are finished with a single crochet and picot edge.

DRESS MOTIFS

For the very interesting and charming wool embroideries these simple motifs are perfectly adapted. For children's dresses the heavy embroidery cotton is nice. The seed and loop stitches combined with the darning and outline are very pretty. The edges are of the open button-holing with heavy cotton which is also quickly executed. They are applicable to most any dress design.

cornstarch and salt. Strain and bake in a moderate oven. When puffy on top and firm in the center, the custard is finished.

Coffee Jelly

1/2 box gelatine or 2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, 2 cups strong coffee, 1/2 cup cold water 1/2 cup cocoanut, 1/2 cup sugar.

Soak gelatine twenty minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, strain, and add to sugar and coffee and cocoanut. Turn into mould, and chill. Serve with sugar and cream.

Coffee Frappe

3 cups strong coffee, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup thick cream.

Dissolve the sugar in the coffee. Chill. Add the cream and freeze to a mush. Use an equal quantity of ice and salt in packing the freezer. Serve in sherbet glasses.

CHAIN OR BEADS ADD THE FINISHING TOUCH

And a string of beads is sure to be the last word in the description of every modish summer costume. It is the last touch but by no means the least in importance. Once upon a time a girl thought she was very lucky to possess a neat little string of coral, or a short rope of fine pearls, or possibly a pendant on a gold chain. Now she must have almost as many chains as she has handkerchiefs.

It is often the chain of beads that makes the costume. This is especially true of the collarless frocks that look so unfinished without something about the neck. The shops are showing such a wonderful variety of bead necklaces at an equal variety of prices that one should have no trouble in indulging in two or three at any rate. Those lovely long chains—most of the newer chains reach below the waist—of Japanese glass, china and wooden beads stung on knotted cords and ending in beautiful carved wooden locket, larger many of them than a silver dollar, look especially good over linen frocks of the chemise variety, or with several blouses and skirts.

For the organdie and voile frocks pretty little chains can be made at home from tinsel cords with Jap or Italian beads and then finished off with silken or tinsel tassels. The advantage in making these chains is that they can be planned as an intimate part of the costume. It would not be surprising to hear of someone buying a frock to match the beads, so important has the necklace become.

And here is a way to imitate with little trouble and surprising effect those lovely woven chains done on the small wooden looms. Use about eight strands of various colored silks, and lay them parallel, being sure they are exactly the same length. About half way on these at each side weave some small beads for the depth of an inch or so to hold the threads together, and at the bottom where the strands meet in sixteen threads weave beads again for a depth of two inches and let the threads ravel into fringe with a bead tied into the end of each.—Indianapolis News.

Two Bags For One.

We hear so much about reversible things today, that a reversible bag is not exactly a novelty. It is, however, a great convenience to many people, for it may be of rather subdued tones on one side, for morning use, and then be quickly transformed into a gay bit of color, for afternoon use, merely by turning it inside out.

A dark brocaded silk is an attractive fabric, for one side of such a bag, and this might be lined with a self-striped or softly figured silk, in light tones. One bag made on this order, seen recently, was fashioned from a soft silk of Persian design, with blue predominating. There were many touches of mustard yellow through it, and so it looked quite natural to see the other side made of that in an attractive silk, striped with satin of the same color. The two sides, that is, both lining and outside, were cut exactly the same shape and size and were gathered neatly upon blue china or celluloid rings. The corners were caught up at each end with fancy buttons, both inside and outside, and the whole bag, shaped like a miniature knitting bag, was finished off so neatly that one side was as attractive as the other.

Gingham.

Now that gingham—once relegated largely to the kitchen or thought of as merely as a good serviceable material for the dresses of active small people—has come to the front among the fashionable textiles for warm weather wear, so much so in fact that a pretty gingham gown is quite as costly as silk, if not more so, these same gingham are extending their sway to include all sorts of dress accessories. Instead of the ever-present collar and cuff set of sheer and pure white lawn, or of some plain colored muslin which is a somewhat later style, we now find, in the up-to-date shops, a still later novelty in the shape of collar and cuff sets of plain white lawn, bordered with deep bands of gingham. Some of them are very attractive, too, for the new season's gingham are extremely pretty.

The plaid mixtures seem to be the most popular, and many are the color combinations to be seen in those. Rather large plaids, too, are quite common now, sometimes with many colors intermingled, again with but two or three. Then, for similar effects, there are the gingham which are checked and yet not checked; rather, they have the white ground marked off into tiny one-eighth or one-fourth inch squares with lines of color; these are particularly dainty.

Somehow, one would hardly expect to find gingham hats offered in Fifth Avenue shops, but there they are just the same and truly attractive they appear. Some are broad-brimmed mushroom sailors with a flat brim of the gingham, a high crown with a smooth top and the side cut on the bias, sometimes folded smoothly around, sometimes shirred or folded. Also, occasionally, the under side of the brim is faced with a plain color. Then there are the turbans, neat little ones, sometimes of gay gingham, usually combined with a band of straw; there is plenty of room for variation, for there are so many kinds of gingham.

With the hats made of this fabric, which now occupies the foremost rank among the favorites of fashion, one is nearly always sure to find a knitting bag to match. These gingham hats, of course, being so decorative in themselves, require little in the way of trimming—perhaps just a large-headed fancy pin, the head being of colored glass, or stone, or jet or of some metal. One curious small hat, however, seen just the other day, had as decoration, fastened at one side, like a pair of oars, under several stitches of black silk, a pair of long slender white sticks, each pointed at one end and fitted with a pear-shaped blue end, actually a pair of knitting needles. Although the stitches seemed to hold them quite securely, the close observer was perfectly certain that, if the woman who was to wear that hat should one day find herself knitting-less in any spot where she must wait for some time, she would not hesitate, if she could acquire a supply of yarn, to remove that strange trimming from the side of her hat and set to work.

There is still another dress accessory which might be included in this list, and that is the handkerchief. Although this may not be made actually of gingham, sometimes it has a tiny border of gingham hemstitched on. Such a decoration has long been common in children's handkerchiefs. However, the colored handkerchief is quite the thing today, also the white one with the colored border, not gingham but linen or lawn, narrow or wide, according to the taste of the purchaser—the shops supply all kinds. Some of these, many, in fact, are in plain colors, but still there are many others with a border of a decidedly ginghamy-looking plaid.

Still one more field in which the gingham of today holds a triumphant place—that is, among the parasols. Here it is, with gingham gown and hat and knitting bag, and even in the border of the handkerchief, and in the collar and cuff set to be worn with the sport suit, here, too, is the gingham parasol ready for good, hard wear.

Colors, this season bid fair to be as popular as for some time past, and the widespread use of gingham helps add quantity and variety to the colors that one may incorporate in a single costume.

ONIONS STUFFED WITH NUTS.

The onion is one of the most valuable vegetables, and should be eaten freely throughout the year. A little sprig of parsley eaten after eating onions will remove the objectionable odor.

Boil even sized onions until tender, remove the centers, chop and mix these with butter, chopped nuts, salt, pepper and bread crumbs. Fill the onions and pour around them a little thin cream or rich milk, or any broth with which to baste them while baking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or they may take the place of meat.

CHEESE SALAD.

Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of hot water, add half a pound of grated cheese and a pint of whipped cream. Season well with salt and paprika with a few dashes of cayenne. Pour into a wet mold and allow it to become firm. Turn out and cut in slices, serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing or with any desired boiled dressing.
